MEDICINE MEN MEET.

Much Business of a Technical, Gastronomical and Social Nature Disposed Of.

The regular menthly meeting of the Carbondale Medical society, composed of physicians in this city and adjacent lowns, was held on Monday evening at the Hotel American. The host of the evening was Dr. David L. Balley, and right well did be fill the bill with his cental welcome to his guests as they seconded one by one in the cozy parbut on the second floor of the hotel The meeting was to have been called to order at 8 o'clock, but it was 8.40 when the last physician came into the parlor and Dr. 12. Ottman, the president of the society, opened the busi-

Dr. Ottman sprang a surprise on the members right away by tendering his resignation. He said that the society had now rounded out two years, during which time he had been president, and he did not think that one man should absorb all the honors. In a that had been accomplished, and said that he thought that all would agree and acknowledge that all were better dectors than they were two years ago. He adjured his brother physicians to model their lives after the pattern set by Him of two thousand years ago, the Grant Physician.

Dr. Ottman was urged to accept the edice again by a number of the physibut the president emphatically declined, nor could be be induced to reconsider his determination. Dr. Fletcher then took the chair. He put a motion to accept Dr. Ottman's resignation, and it was voted down unant-

After suppor the business session was continued in the parter, Dr. Harper was made temporary secretary. The first business to come up was to econsider the vote not to accept Dr. Offman's resignation, which was done, and then Dr. W. W. Fletcher was elected by a unanimous vote, and Dr Davis, of Jermyn, vice president, and Dr. Otthur, chalence coeritus.

Dr. Ottman nade a little speech suggesting that the society do away with costly bungaria as a feature of their meetings, as these latter were intended for the benefit of the fraternity, and he thought the expenof the dinners was too unan. He thought that a cup of conces and a Piece of eaks would be sufficient for retreshments.

Runaway Stepped by a Broom.

A team of horses belouging to Irving Snyder, standing in front of the muchy-rebuilt store of J. Nenjon, on south Main street, became frightened it a trolley our yesterday and started north at a good clip. They had some about a liberty when Hermard Spith, sweeping the sidewalk in front of the place, saw them coming, He chased nto the road in front of the animals, and holding his broom adoft caused hem to stop running as abruptly as they had begun. With his magic broom he described several fancy cireles in the air above their heads, and backed the subfued animals by this means up against the crub, and then the driver elambered into the wagon and drove them away.

Father Accused Daughters.

Bridget and Annie Mannion, of Pike treet, were before Alderman Atkinson on Monday evening on warrants sworn out by the father, Patrick Mannion, charging them with stealing a deed of the value of $75 to a plot of land on Battle avenue, which the latter had bought several years ago. He desired to have the deed recorded a short time ago, but could not find it. He accuses his daughters of knowing its whereabouts. At the hearing the defendants were discharged for lack of evidence, the parent having changed his mind about prosecuting. He is still minus the deed.

Objects to Sleeping Outdoors. Michael Walsh was arrested yesterday by his brother-in-law, John McAllister, for assault and battery. McAllister claimed that his brother in-law (Walsh) locks him out of his (McAllister's) house, and makes him eek sleep outside these crisp nights, and he decidedly objects to such proceedings.
